

CHANNEL MIXER

Mixing Solutions

Komax large-scale channel mixers are designed to be installed in water treatment channels of any cross-section including open and closed ducts. Low pressure drop design can be provided in complete assemblies or in component form where access is difficult.

Chemical injection can be provided through a premixing dilution grid, which predistributes chemicals uniformly across the cross-sectional area of the mixer.

One to four chemical injectors are offered. Available in virtually all channel sizes.
